++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Very wet, especially in the south and west. Coastal gales.

Today:

A wet and cloudy day, with persistent rain moving in during the morning. Southern and western areas will see the heaviest outbreaks, especially over the Brecon Beacons. Far eastern areas may see occasional dry spells. Strong winds, with coastal gales. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Tonight:

The heavy rain continues, heaviest to the south of or over higher ground, but may ease slightly east of the mountains. Remaining windy and mild overnight. Minimum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Saturday:

Further prolonged rain, locally heavy, through Saturday, with only areas in the northeast receiving any drier periods. Mild, despite strong to gale force southerly winds. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:

Rain on Sunday soon clears to leave sunshine and showers, along with lighter winds. Dry on Monday, with early cloud clearing quickly. Rain and strong winds return on Tuesday. Mild.
